The cause of the fire, it is stated, was an overheater furnace. Mr. Higgins was awakened from a sound sleep by what sounded to him the a stream by what sounded to him "ke a stream of running water. In a moment, he says, he smelled smoke and then fraited that the house was on fire. He rushed from his room to that of his mother and endeavored to rouse her by pounding on the door, but, owing to her deafness, he thinks she did not hear.

Mr. Higgins, groping through the smoke and flames, rushed to each room arousing all the members of the family. He had hoped that his mother was up. He tried to get back to her room, but the flames cut him off. It was then that the root of the family. was then that the rest of the family gathered at the window and jumped for their lives The fire was a spectacular one and in the early morning hours cast a glow over a large portion of the city.
